

Legend states that dreams are messages from sacred spirits. The dreamcatcher represents the web of life and its job is to sift the dreams of those sleeping nearby. Bad dreams are caught on the web and disappear in the morning sun. Good dreams pass through the center hole and are fulfilled in the sleeper's destiny.

This card and dreamcatcher are made especially for you by Tularosa Middle School
Indian Club
Tularosa, New Mexico
December 2000

Dreamcatchers are American Indian symbols of good luck.

Geography Teacher Judy Tribble made this sample card at the Tularosa Middle School. You may make your cards on your computers to represent your individual schools, organizations or as a personal card from you and your family.