Aircraft, missiles hammer terrorists in Afghanistan

By Jim Garamone

American Forces Press Service

ASHINGTON – Aircraft and Tomahawk missiles hammered terrorist targets in Afghanistan, DoD officials said in a Pentagon press conference Oct. 8.

About 15 land-based bombers and 25 Navy strike aircraft from carriers participated in the first strikes, said Air Force Gen. Richard Myers, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. In addition, U.S. and British ships and submarines launched approximately 50 Tomahawk missiles.

Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said the land-based bombers were U.S. B-2s, B-1Bs and B-52s. Most of the munitions dropped were precision-guided.

Rumsfeld said that any characterization of the strikes as an attack on the Afghan people is "flat wrong." He said the United States supports the Afghan people and that the attacks were aimed at Osama bin Laden's Al Qaeda terrorist network and the Taliban regime that supports him.

The secretary said a coalition of forces made the attacks possible. That coalition, he said, shares "the belief that terrorism is a cancer on the human condition, and we intend to oppose it wherever it is."

"What took place today, and what will take place in the period ahead, is part of the measured and broad and sustained response that the president announced shortly after the attacks on Sept. 11," Rumsfeld said during a press conference.

The attacks initially targeted anti-aircraft sites, Taliban combat aircraft and terrorist sites. The attacks set the stage "for sustained anti-terrorist and humanitarian relief operations in Afghanistan," Rumsfeld said.

The U.S. also started air dropping 37,500 humanitarian ration packets from two Air Force C-17 transports to refugees within Afghanistan, Myers and Rumsfeld noted.

Rumsfeld said the attacks will make it harder for Al Qaeda to do business in Afghanistan. They will also make life difficult for the Taliban regime. He said the opening attacks were focused on hammering home a number of points, the first being a clear message to the Taliban leaders that harboring terrorists is unacceptable and carries a price.

The attacks seek to acquire intelligence to facilitate future operations against Al Qaeda and the Taliban, he noted. They will further U.S. and coalition efforts to "develop relationships with groups in Afghanistan that See "ATTACK," page 9.

Prostate cancer: early detection equals early successes

By J02 Ellen Maurer NNMC Public Affairs

X ASHINGTON (NWS) – The National Naval Medical Center's (NNMC) medical team says it's time to go public with what some people consider a private topic: prostate cancer.

Prostate cancer is the most common cancer that strikes males in the United States. The American Cancer Association estimates that nearly 200,000 new cases of the disease are diagnosed each year. Nearly 40,000 males will die from the disease.

Despite these statistics, doctors say many are reluctant to get tested for this disease, mostly due to the uncomfortable, but necessary, rectal exam used to check for this condition.

Other reasons include the fear that if prostate cancer is discovered, it will most likely be either a literal death sentence, or a metaphorical death sentence to what they consider full and happy lives. Because of these preconceived notions, many choose to avoid finding out altogether.

They hear all the warnings about impotence and incontinence after prostate treatments, but what they don't realize is that if prostate cancer is caught early, many of the side effects can be treated.

"One of our main goals, if someone is diagnosed with prostate cancer, is getting them back to normal after their treatment," says Lt. Cmdr. Charles Barnes, Nurse Corps (NC), urology service manager at NNMC. "We're sensitive to those kinds of quality-of-life issues and we want men to know that there are options available that (()) can help."

Barnes says routine doctor visits for Have you African-American had your males, 40 years old prostate and older, and white males, 50 years and checked? older, are crucial to catching cancer in its earliest stages. Those with family histories of ated at an earlier age.

During the visit, a doctor will perform a digital rectal exam. A prostate-specific antigen blood test is usually done prior to the visit. If anything unusual is detected, the doctor may suggest a biopsy.

Barnes admits that the whole process can be intimidating and overwhelming. He believes that education is the key to conquering these fears. Barnes added that NNMC's mission is to help men understand that while this disease affects each person privately,

Heaven's gate is like the eye of a needle

By Cmdr. An Nguyen Religious Ministries

A ccording to some Biblical scholars, one of the gates leading into Jerusalem was so narrow, that a big, richly loaded camel could not pass through that gate. The gate was nicknamed "Needle's Eye," just as we now call some roads "bottle necks."

Jesus has this Needle's Eye gate in mind when he mentions a narrow door. It's narrow, but it's open day and night. Everyone should be able to pass through and nobody should be left behind.

To pass through that gate, we don't need a visa, a passport, a green card, a residence permit, an ID card, a social security number or an alien's registration. The gate is narrow (Luke 13:24) but open. There is no immigration officer and no checkpoint. It's a free entry: no formalities, no restriction, no bribes, no taxes, no watchmen, and no guards.

But the gate is narrow! So we have to travel very light. It means we have to leave this world the same way we came into it: no loaded bag, no prestige, no power, no family, no friends, no money or jewelry, nothing at all.

There was a story about a man, who was warned in a neighboring country: "The police are looking for you! The CIA, the Criminal Investigation Department, they are all looking for you. You are a member of the most wanted! Be quick to disappear. There is still time, the road is open."

That man postponed his decision and hesitated to leave, because he wanted to arrange his personal business: hide his car, bury his possession, get word to his loved ones and get some money from the bank. Finally, it was too late. He was picked up and disappeared.

Gen. McArthur left everything behind – even some of his troops – in the Philippines when Japan suddenly invaded the islands. He looked back to the islands with love and he promised one thing: "I shall return!" That was the narrow gate he walked through.

During World War II, the Korean War and Vietnam, families would be warned: "Get out or disappear! You cannot take much, the luggage margin is very narrow, one piece only. Be ready tomorrow." Many had not been able to make up their minds about what to take and what to leave. They were taken and later perished. Some carried too much and moved so slow they also perished. Only those who traveled light passed through the narrow gate and survived to return triumphantly!

To do the work of Christ doesn't mean that we will be put out. However, it might mean that we will be seen as failures. We have to drop our own agendas and do what must be done. We have to reach out to serve and to love those whom we are afraid of and whom we are trying to avoid or ignore. Whenever we walk through the narrow door like that, we remember the moment when Jesus hung on the cross; his friends and enemies alike believed he was a failure (Matthew 27:30). He was picked up and disappeared miserably!

He had led disciples away from their families and jobs, away from the comforts of homes, and – at the moment of His death – it seemed to have been for nothing. To be true followers of Christ, we must accept a small share of His martyrdom. We do not have to surrender our physical lives, but we do have to surrender control of our lives, our time and our possession. We have to be light on our feet, never settling in, never becoming too comfortable and always in the move to the new horizon.

Chaplain's Corner

This is not a happy message for most modern men and women, not even for all believers. We have become very comfortable, put down roots, and have done all we can to make our lives easier, happier, more enjoyable and more secure. Martyrdom, even just a little bit, does not sound good to us. Faith at this moment is not a sure thing and we are unwilling to suffer for something that might be an illusion.

We believe in salvation and resurrection but we cannot prove that we have been given eternal life. Why? Because when we knock at the door, the Lord might say from the inside: "I do not know where you are from!" (Luke 13:25)

Following Christ, therefore, is a stumbling block for some and folly for many. But to us, the believers, if we live with Christ, in Christ and through Christ and we serve him in serving others; if we keep his Ten Commandments, He will welcome us any time! We should pass through the narrow gate easily!

To be a Christian, is inconvenient. If we have never been inconvenienced following Christ, we probably have not been following him closely. Rough roads and narrow doors – that is what following Jesus is all about (Matthew 10:37-39).

It's a rough road because we have to say

"no" to many attractions, pleasures, and immoral relationships; and we have to cut ourselves off from bribery, fraud and inhuman actions for personal profits. It's a narrow door because we have to deny even our very self, to take up the cross, to follow Him to the unknown and uncertain adventure. Without faith, we cannot accept or understand the narrow door, but with faith everything is possible in our ordinary lives.

Let's live a human life to the fullest. Let's invest all we have for God and others. Let's live just and chaste, humble and uncomplicated. Let's care only for things that will pass through the narrow door, the road less traveled with the cross and with love, then the happy life and glory will follow (Matthew 10:40-42).

Alcohol use may lead to accidents: are you next?

By GSE1(SW) Charles Wadlington, ADC1 Director, CAAC Diego Garcia

A ccidents will happen. And they seem to happen easier and more often to people who've been drinking.

According to Louis W. Sullivan, M.D., former Secretary of Health and Human Services, "Half of all injuries could be avoided by not drinking when you are driving, boating, operating machinery, feeling angry, or using a firearm."

Trauma suffered in accidents of various kinds is a major cause of death and injury in this country. Every year, more than 140,000 Americans die from injuries, and almost one person in three suffers a non-fatal injury serious enough to require medical attention or cause temporary disability.

Of course, alcohol isn't involved in all of these cases, but it does play a significant role in trauma. Research indicates that alcohol intoxication is associated with:

¥ 40 to 50 percent of traffic fatalities;

₹ 25 to 30 percent of non-fatal motor vehicle injuries;

ĭ up to 64 percent of fires and burns;

 \mathbb{T} 48 percent of hypothermia and frostbite cases; and ₹ approximately 20 percent of completed suicides.

Although not necessarily at the level of intoxication, alcohol also is a factor in:

ĭ 40 percent or more of all falls; and ₹ almost 50 percent of homicides (victim or perpetrator).

Additionally, studies show that between 20 and 37 percent of all emergency room trauma cases involved alcohol use or abuse, and that between 20 and 25 percent of all persons hospitalized with an injury can be identified as problem drinkers or alcoholics.

Alcohol abusers increase their risk of accident in two ways: greater likelihood of injury and greater seriousness of injury. First, an alcohol abuser is more likely to be involved in a trauma event than a sober person. In other words, heavy drinkers have a higher risk for accidents than non-drinkers.

Second, there's a greater chance that a drinker will be hurt more seriously than a nondrinker. Most research findings indicate a relationship between alcohol use and severity of injury. This goes against the common belief that drunk persons are less likely to be seriously hurt in an accident because they are "relaxed."

Some other trauma statistics show that alcohol is associated with: 7 70 percent of attempted suicides;

1 47 to 65 percent of adult drownings; and ₹ 59 percent of fatal falls.

Among males defined as heavy drinkers, the risk of accidental death is estimated at two and a half to eight times greater than among the general population. Further, alcoholics are nearly five times more likely to

Dependent travel to Bahrain restricted

Submitted by Ens. Hope Hair OIC, PSD Diego Garcia

The following clarification on dependent travel to Bahrain was received from CNO-413B:

Uniformed members and civilian employees may execute PCS orders to Bahrain but their family members are not authorized travel to Bahrain because there is a Dependent Stop Travel in effect. Family members in receipt of a Command Sponsorship letter but who have not traveled to Bahrain are included in the Dependent Stop Travel order.

Dependents already residing in Bahrain and in possession of a State of Bahrain Central Population Registration (CPR) Card who are returning from EML/Regular Leave are authorized to return to Bahrain.

Family members who are not in possession of a CPR card are not authorized to travel to Bahrain.

die in motor vehicle crashes, 10 times more likely to be fire or burn victims, and 16 times more likely to die in falls.

One notable example of death by falling is that of actor William Holden, who suffered a fatal head injury in a fall at his home in 1981. The coroner's report showed the amount of alcohol in his bloodstream at the time of death was equal to 10 drinks.

Injuries and deaths related to alcohol and other drugs exact a tremendous toll on American society. The number of potential years of life lost equals those lost to cancer, and is greater than those lost to heart disease, the two leading causes of death in this country. These trauma incidents are also costly economically; it's estimated that alcohol-related injuries alone come to $47 billion every year.

A large percentage of military people, many who are below the drinking age, use alcohol in varying degrees. In the military, peer pressure to drink can be intense. If you hope to avoid accidents caused by alcohol use, the best solution is to make healthy choices with the only life you'll ever have. Getting drunk doesn't need to be a rite of passage, and hangovers aren't required for advancement.

Don't become one of these "sobering" statistics (pun intended) – think before you drink!

Cycle 172 E-4 exam set for Wednesday in the Island Room

By Chief of Naval Personnel Public Affairs

ASHINGTON (NNS) – Get back to those study manuals. The Navywide advancement exam for cycle 172 has been rescheduled for this Wednesday, Oct. 10, for those eligible for E-4.

The cycle 172 exam for those eligible for E-5 was held Thursday, Oct. 4.

The exams were postponed after the terrorist attack against the Pentagon and World Trade Center in New York, Sept. 11.

"Moving the exams when we did was important for our Sailors because their focus was narrowed to combat readiness after the attacks," said Vice Adm. Norb Ryan Jr., Chief of Naval Personnel. "While our focus is still squarely on mission readiness, our work includes ensuring we provide the opportunity for our Sailors to advance and assume more responsibility."

Because the exams were delayed, modified procedures must be followed to ensure that cycle 172 first increment advancements occur as scheduled. Commands should return answer sheets as soon as possible after the exam to the Naval Education and Training Professional Development and Technology Center (NETPDTC).

Exam answer sheets need to be sent to NETPDTC within seven working days. The most effective way to return answer sheets is via U.S. registered mail or GSA contract for overnight delivery.

Commands should monitor the electronic tote board located at http://www.advancement.cnet.navy.mil to ensure their answer sheets have been received. If answer sheets are not listed within 10 working days for registered mail, commands should call NETPDTC at (850) 452-1252 or DSN 922-1252 to verify whether answer sheets have been received.

For additional guidance on the E-4 exam for cycle 172, refer to NAVADMIN 247/01.

Education loan relief possible for some

From MilitaryReport.com

Soldiers, Sailors, airmen and Marines who are taking up the task of defending their country may be eligible for education loan relief, according to Ron Paige, U.S. Education Secretary.

"The young men and women who serve our country have an enormous job to do in the coming months," Paige said. "The actions we are taking today will ease their financial burdens as they defend our country in these challenging times."

These actions apply to members of the National Guard and the Armed Forces Ready Reserve who have been called to active duty. The department's guidance applies to student loans made under the Federal Family Education Loan, William D. Ford Loan or Federal Perkins Loan programs.

Under the department's guidance, lenders will automatically postpone student loan payments of borrowers during the period of the borrower's active duty service. Borrowers with subsidized student loans will be eligible to have the federal government assume interest payments on their loans while they serve on military duty.

For those called to active duty whose loans are not yet in repayment because they are current students or recently left school and in a grace period, the department has directed lenders to hold their loans in the current deferment status. Borrowers will not be required to make payments to lenders during the term of their military service, as well as for a reason-See "LOAN RELIEF," page 13.

AMC still operating flights worldwide, with some changes in place

Submitted by Ens. Hope Hair OIC, PSD Diego Garcia

S COTT AIR FORCE BASE, III. (USTCNS) – Air Mobility Command (AMC) is still operating passenger flights for military and other eligible travelers. However, there are fewer flights and a few changes that passengers need to remember when they are planning to use military aircraft or contract aircraft for either official or Space-Available (Space-A) travel.

"AMC-operated missions are now under tighter security restrictions because of the recent terrorist attacks," said Cindy Rothenbach, a traffic management specialist with the Passenger Policy Branch at AMC. "We now have enhanced passenger processing measures because of the need for heightened security at our passenger terminals."

Under the new procedures, all passengers must present two forms of ID when checking in for a flight. One of those IDs must have a passenger photo. Any sharp-edged objects, regardless of length must be placed in checked baggage where it will be inaccessible to the passenger.

"All hand-carried items are subject to 100 percent inspection," said Rothenbach. Checked bags will also be randomly inspected for all AMC missions.

Rothenbach said that passengers may experience a slowdown in processing and recommends official and Space-A passengers call the appropriate AMC terminal for flight status. Travelers may need to show up at passenger terminals up to three hours prior to take-off.

"Passengers leaving on Space-A flights from military terminals should also be aware of current force protection conditions, which may cause delays in accessing military installations," she said.

Rothenbach said that there have been no reductions on Patriot Express flights to the Atlantic or Pacific Theater from AMC gateways at commercial terminals. But travelers need to understand there are additional precautions at those airports, and they should plan their arrival time accordingly.

A consideration for Space-A travelers is that for the foreseeable future, there will be fewer flights and fewer seats available.

"Since AMC-owned aircraft are being called into service to support higher-priority missions, Space-A seating may be harder to get," Rothenbach said. Space-A is still available, but travelers should check the nearest passenger terminal for information.

Brit party mascot Monty passes on Oct. 4

Sadly, Monty the retired drug dog and Naval Party 1002 mascot was put to sleep due to ill health on Thursday, Oct. 4. Monty has been on Diego Garcia since 1988, when he arrived as a drug sniffer dog. He sensibly retired himself after three years and settled down to a pampered life of luxury. An intelligent animal with an aversion to unnecessary exercise, he repidly mastered the Diego Garcia bus system and would wait patiently for the bus to stop and take him to the Seaman's Service Center for his lunch. He would then reboard the bus to travel on to Moody Brook for well-deserved rest and relaxation. In his latter years, he made himself useful as a mobile trip hazard outside the Brit Rep's office. Monty was not only a much loved member of the Naval Party, but was a well-known character in the island-wide community. He will be sadly missed by those who knew him. Monty will be buried at Cannon Point, near a location where plans are in place to build a park bench overlooking the ocean in his memory.

Navy personnel run with American flag from Pentagon to WTC site

By JO1 Joseph Gunder Navy News Service

ASHINGTON (NNS) – The terrorist attacks of Sept. 11 touched everyone in America, one way or another. Ens. Daniel Campos, stationed in Annapolis, Md., watched as thousands of Americans were killed on live television, and took note of the subsequent sacrifices by firefighters and rescue workers.

He decided on a unique way to pay tribute. A World Trade Center relay, where runners would carry the American flag from the Pentagon all the way to the site of the World Trade Center, would be an appropriate way to rally the American spirit to honor the victims. Runners would pass the American flag to each other all along the route, all 250-plus miles.

According to the Campos, the purpose behind the run was threefold:

• To show those who are still working

This vintage World War II poster concerning Operational Security (OpSec) is a vivid reminder of the importance of maintaining OpSec at all times. Diego Garcia residents are reminded to keep OpSec in mind whenever sending e-mails or placing phone calls to friends and family at home. The slightest details could be used by enemy agents against the United States and the military. Remember, OpSec is everyone's responsibility!

there that America is proud and supportive of them;

• To show America's unity, strength and resolve in a time of turmoil;

• To heighten awareness of the need to support the families of those who have passed and those who remain to finish the business of reconstructing the Pentagon and excavating the wreckage of the World Trade Center.

Campos figured that it would take two days at a runner's pace to cover the distance from the Pentagon to the WTC site if they ran all day and night.

He asked fellow ensigns, Christine Fix and Jon Durham for help. They were able to rally enough volunteers, more than 60, to break the journey into 40-mile blocks, with about seven or so runners in each "wave." A chase van would carry the non-runners until a relief van could catch up with a fresh group.

The primary flag was obtained from the office of the Secretary of the Navy in the Pentagon. It was a rather large version, with gold trim and a wooden pole. A second, lighter flag with an aluminum pole was also used for the long distance traveled.

Fix planned the route so the runners wouldn't take any major thoroughfares. However, the course of the run would take the runners through two major cities before New York: Baltimore and Philadelphia.

The group took off at 6 a.m. Friday, Sept. 28, about an hour before sunrise.

By Saturday morning, the runners made it up to Philadelphia. A policeman pulled alongside in his cruiser and asked what they were doing. Once the police discovered where the runners were headed, an escort was immediately arranged and the runners were put on a more direct route.

The runners got lots of attention in the City of Brotherly Love and beyond.

"Wherever we went, policemen, firemen would all stop and salute us," said Fix. "People along the route were coming out of their shops to check us out. Riders on their motorcycles were saluting us."

The group of runners ended up with police escorts from Philadelphia through New Jersey to their final destination.

"When we passed from one jurisdiction to another, the police would radio ahead and turn us over to the next escort," explained Fix. "We had a police escort pretty much all the way into New York City." "I'll never forget the show of support from everybody," wrote Jan Waters, an Annapolis resident who ran along with her military neighbors. "People giving words of encouragement, hollering 'God Bless America.' There were even groups who starting singing 'America the Beautiful' when I went by."

"The show of support was unreal," wrote HM1 Rich Moesch. "The horns blowing, the sirens, people cheering, the thanks from all of the people in New York was just unreal."

After passing through the Holland Tunnel and into Manhattan around 6 p.m. Saturday, the runners and police escorts stopped at the berth of USNS Comfort (T-AH 20), where they presented the lighter flag to the commanding officer of the ship.

An hour later, they were off again, this time with some extra runners from Comfort. Nothing, not even Hollywood, could prepare the runners for what they found when the finally arrived at the site of the former World Trade Center.

"We all were just shocked," said Fix when the runners got to the WTC site. "It's like nothing you've seen on TV. It was so much more devastating then we had seen. It was kind of surreal."

Fix continued, "The firemen were quite honored to see us. They took us past the barricades and right to their firehouse by the Trade Center. They showed us the remainder of a fire truck, which was little more than a door. We all stopped and had a moment of silence for the people that were lost."

"I thought it was the greatest thing in the world," said John Bambury, New York Fire Department's Deputy Fire Chief, who was at "ground zero" when the runners presented him with the flag from the Pentagon. "Our spirits were really low. We lost so many men. This helped boost our morale."

The runners also got a morale boost by helping to stir a wave of patriotism during one of the darkest times in American history.

Ens. Jack Kruse was also along for the run. He stopped at the WTC site to chat with one of the weary firefighters.

"So, what kind of hours do they have you working here at ground zero?" Kruse asked.

The firefighter paused for a minute and answered, "You know, they've stopped calling it 'ground zero.' It's now 'ground hero.'"

As for working hours, Kruse found out See "RELAY," page 9.

Flag flown at 'ground zero' sent to USS Theodore Roosevelt

From the Navy Wire Service

N ORFOLK, Va. (NNS) – The Sailors and Marines aboard USS Theodore Roosevelt (CVN 71) recently received a very special symbol of America as the ship heads overseas following the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks: the flag flown at "ground zero" in New York City.

This is the same flag that was raised by three New York City firefighters in a recent photograph that some media have compared to the historic image of U.S. Marines raising the American flag at Iwo Jima.

On Sept. 23, New York Governor George Pataki and New York City Mayor Rudolph Giuliani signed the flag and gave it to Adm. Robert J. Natter, Commander in Chief of the U.S. Atlantic Fleet, with the intent that it be flown over naval forces deployed overseas in response to the terrorist attack.

Natter accepted the flag and directed that it be sent to Theodore Roosevelt, the Atlantic Fleet aircraft carrier that departed on deployment from its homeport of Norfolk, Va., on Sept. 19.

"This flag represents the spirit and courage of all Americans," said Natter. "It has incredible meaning for all our Sailors and Marines, and we're proud to fly it aboard one of our most powerful warships. It will serve as both a remembrance and as a motivator for our forward-deployed naval forces."

The Navy will return the flag to the New York City Fire Department upon the Theodore Roosevelt Battle Group's return oppose the Taliban regime and the foreign terrorists they support," he added.

that some of the firefighters have been working for 24 hours straight – removing rubble and remains, trying to account for the thousands still missing.

"You can just see it in their eyes," said Kruse. "They're tired. These guys come here day after day and dig through rubble. It encouraged me as a person and member of the military, if these guys can come in here and work in this pit everyday, then we should be able to give 110 percent of ourselves everyday."

On Sept. 11, New York City Firefighters Dan McWilliams, George Johnson and Billy Eisengrein anchored a single flagpole in about 20 feet of rubble and raised the U.S. Flag, an image that was captured by the Bergen County New Jersey Record newspaper photographer Tom Franklin.

its offensive systems and, finally, to make it possible for the U.S. to provide humanitarian relief safely "to Afghans suffering truly oppressive living conditions under the Taliban regime," Rumsfeld said.

Myers said the operations in Afghanistan are "visible," but that other operations may not be.

"But visible or not, our friends and enemies should understand that all instruments of our national power, as well as those of our friends and allies around the world, are being brought to bear on this global menace," Myers said.

"We are in the early stages of ongoing combat operations, and our outstanding men and women in uniform are performing just as they've been trained to do – and that is to say, superbly."

New York City Firefighters Dan McWilliams, George Johnson and Billy Eisengrein raised the American flag over the rubble of the World Trade Center on Sept. 11, 2001, in a scene eerily reminiscent of the Marine Corps flag raising on Iwo Jima during World War II.

All aircraft return safely; first day of attacks a success

By Sgt. 1st Class Kathleen T. Rhem, USA American Forces Press Service

X 7 ASHINGTON – All U.S. aircraft participating in attacks on Afghanistan Oct. 7 returned to their bases safely, and Defense Secretary Donald Rumsfeld called the day's missions a success.

Speaking on morning TV news shows, Rumsfeld disputed Taliban claims that they had shot down American planes during the night. "No aircraft was hit. No aircraft was damaged," Rumsfeld told NBC News. "The allegation by Taliban that they shot down coalition aircraft is flat untrue."

Unmanned craft have been lost in recent days, however. "We have had unmanned aircraft that we have lost control of," he said. "Whether or not the Taliban had anything to do with that is an open question."

He also disagreed with Taliban statements that at least 100 civilians had been killed in the bombings. "The targets were carefully selected," Rumsfeld said. "Any people who were around those targets were (there) because they were part of the Al Queda and the Taliban military."

The secretary described the "two or three dozen" targets in more detail to CNN. "They were all military targets. They were military aircraft, surface-to-air missiles, military airports and runways," Rumsfeld said. "They were terrorist training camps. They were a host of things that are directly associated with the Al Queda and Taliban leadership.

He said the fight will not be a quick one,

Record of emergency data update and verification mandatory

By JOSN Laura Goulding

Center for Career Development, Chief of Naval Personnel Public Affairs

ASHINGTON (NNS) – As the Navv stands ready to participate in the war on terrorism, all Sailors must update and verify their records of emergency data immediately, unless verification has been completed within the last six months and no changes have occurred.

"Our CNO has said we need to focus on the mission, and updating our emergency data is an essential part of that mission," said Vice Adm. Norb Ryan Jr., Chief of Naval Personnel. "There is not a more critical responsibility for our people than assuring we have the right data to contact family members should we need to reach them.'

Commanding officers and officers in charge are responsible for ensuring their personnel understand the critical need to complete this data update as soon as possible.

"This is an essential mission for Navy leadership at all levels of the chain of command," said Ryan. "Part of our responsibility for taking care of Sailors includes ensuring we are ready to support their families and able to contact them quickly in an emergency."

Sailors should ensure all copies of the record of emergency data contain the additional address and telephone numbers for each designated Primary Next of Kin and Secondary Next of Kin as required.

Verification of Servicemembers' Group Life Insurance (SGLI) election will also be conducted with record of emergency data updates. Navy family care plan certificates and arrangements should also be updated.

In the event that information has changed since the last update, Personnel Support Detachments (PSD) or admin offices need to send the updated, original record of emergency data to NAVPERSCOM (PERS-313C), 5720 Integrity Drive, Millington, Tenn. 38055-3130 using regular mail. PSDs should also maintain a copy in their local office.

For additional guidance on record of emergency data updates, see NAVADMIN 260/ 01 and NAVADMIN 098/01. ( estimating it could take years to defeat terrorism. "There are a lot of people who have been trained in these terrorist training camps in many of the countries that sponsor terrorism that are already out there," Rumsfeld said in describing the problem. "They are organized; they have been financed. What we have to do is be patient. We have to recognize that the power of weapons today is such that they can impose enormous damage on free nations and free people."

He said victory wouldn't be declared until "people are free to go about their business."

"As long as people are making a business out of international terrorism and countries are harboring those international terrorists, people will not have that freedom," Rumsfeld said.

Some fees suspended for travel card holders

ccording to Stars and Stripes, Bank of America (BofA) and First USA have made provisions to aid cardholders with repayment plans since the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks disrupted mail service worldwide.

BofA has delayed its salary offset program to collect on delinquent government credit card accounts.

"It's this delay which prompted BofA officials to intercede," said Tech. Sgt. Michael Europe. "They took action with the government travel card program so that cardholders could make timely payments, with minimal inconvenience." In addition, the $10 pay-byphone fee, charged to customers who paid their outstanding balances over the phone, is waived until Oct. 15.

"BofA asked DFAS (Defense Finance and Accounting Service) to garnish wages in order to recoup delinquent balances," Windsor said. "The initial notifications letters were supposed to be mailed Oct. 3, but BofA has pushed the date forward to Oct. 13."

First USA, the credit card company issuing Air Force Club Cards, will suspend late or over limit fees. Minimum payment requirements are on hold until further notice and no additional interest will be charged for failure to receive payment. First USA will also work with those being deployed to set up free automatic payments for accounts.

BofA cardholders are advised to use split disbursement when filing their travel vouchers to avoid late fees.

"This payment method authorizes your local finance office to make a payment on your behalf to BofA," Windsor said. "The money comes from what a traveler would receive after claiming travel expenses on a travel voucher. The payment is immediate, and there is no chance of a late payment due to delays in mail service." (

Look to the future: Thrift Savings Plan enrollment begins today

By Chief of Naval Personnel Public Affairs

7 ASHINGTON (NNS) – It's time to start thinking about how you want to invest your money for retirement.

From Oct. 9, 2001 through Jan. 31, 2002, active duty members and reservists in any pay status can start signing up to make Thrift Savings Plan (TSP) contributions, which offer significant tax incentives.

Much like a 401(K) – a civilian savings plan that invests pre-tax dollars – the TSP is designed to provide retirement monies for military members. It is transferable to other retirement accounts and not tied to the military retirement system.

There is a two-page enrollment form currently available at the Navy Personnel Command home page (http://www.persnet .navy.mil or http://www.bupers.navy.mil), or http://www.tsp.gov by accessing the Uniformed Services option. Once filled out, the forms should be turned in to the servicing Personnel Support Detachment (PSD) or ship's personnel office. The hardest decision is selecting your investment choice and how much you want to contribute. All investment funds are fully explained in NAVADMIN 258/01 and at http:// www.tsp.gov.

Sailors will see contributions deducted from their pay beginning on the Jan. 15, 2002, payday if the enrollment is transmitted to Defense Finance and Accounting Service (DFAS) before Dec. 8, 2001. For enrollments transmitted to DFAS between Dec. 8, 2001 and Jan. 31, 2002, contributions will begin on the Feb. 1, 2002, payday or later.

If you miss the special enrollment period, several others are available: May 15 through July 31, and Nov. 15 through Jan. 31 each year. Reserve personnel, ordered to active duty greater than 30 days can make TSP elections outside an open season.

Individuals who enlist, reenlist after a break in service, or accept a commission in the U.S. Navy or Naval Reserve will be able to elect to participate in TSP outside of regular open seasons. Their enrollment must be within 60 days of either being sworn-in to active duty or entering in a pay status with the Naval Reserve.

With the fast-approaching start of the special enrollment period, the following frequently asked questions and answers will help ensure Sailors are aware of how to enroll in TSP:

Q1. When will detailed information on TSP be published?

A1. The TSP NAVADMIN (258/01) has been released and is available online under messages at http://www.bupers. navy.mil. Also, http://www. tsp.gov provides complete information.

Q2. When will Sailors be able to get TSP sign up forms?

A2. TSP sign up forms were mailed to PSDs and Reserve Centers in September 2001. They are also available online at http://www.tsp.gov by accessing the Uniformed Services option.

Q3. Will the TSP election form be available on-line?

A3. PERS-3 will make the TSP election form (TSP-U-1) available for download on their BUPERS Web site, they are also available online at http://www.tsp.gov by accessing the Uniformed Services option.

Q4. When is the enrollment period for TSP and when will contributions be deducted?

A4. TSP sign up starts Oct. 9, and ends Dec. 31, 2001. If you sign up for TSP from Oct. 9 through Dec. 8, 2001, the first deduction will come from the first pay period in January 2002, and reflect on the Jan. 15, 2002, payday.

Q5. What will each personnel office or PSD do to process TSP enrollment forms?

A5. To process the TSP forms, they will: \Rightarrow Collect the members' TSP-U-1 forms;

⇒Enter the TSP data into Uniform Military Information Distribution System

(UMIDS); and ⇒ Mail the original TSP-U-1 form to PERS-313C.

Q6. What information goes in Block 6 of the TSP-U-1 form?

A6. Block 6 of the TSP-U-1 form is for the member's Unit Identification Code (UIC).

Q7. What information goes in Block 7 of the TSP-U-1 form?

A7. Block 7 is for the percentage (from 1 percent to 7 percent) of monthly Basic Pay the member elects to contribute.

Q8. Can Sailors in a combat zone this year deposit their tax-free earnings in their TSP account?

A8. Sailors in a combat zone in October. November or December of 2001 cannot put that money into a TSP account because TSP contributions do not begin until January 2002.

Q9. How can Sailors, especially those working in a PSD, learn more about TSP?

A9. A good source of information on TSP is the 44-page summary of the TSP for the Uniformed Services located at http://www.tsp.gov.

> Click on the Uniformed Services option for the brief and enrollment form.

O10. How do Reserve Sailors enroll in TSP?

A10. Reserve members will enroll in TSP by submitting their TSP-U-1 form to their Reserve Center.

Web site provides voting info

By Michael McLellan NAVPERSCOM Public Affairs

ILLINGTON, Tenn. (NWS) – The Navy Voting Assistance Program (NVAP) Web site is a fountain of information for voting assistance officers (VAO) and citizens interested in information involving their civic duties. To access NVAP, go to http:// www.persnet.navy.mil/nvap/.

For example, districts in Arkansas, Massachusetts and South Carolina are having special primary and general elections during the last quarter of this year.

Massachusetts and South Carolina are holding elections to fill vacancies following the deaths of congressmen in the 9th Congressional District in Massachusetts and the 2nd district in South Carolina. The congressman representing Arkansas' 3rd District has resigned.

There are a variety of links to useful information on the Web site. There is a link to the U.S. Census Bureau where Sailors and Marines can obtain demographic information on any county or state in the country. Another link goes to a site to obtain an online version of the federal post card application that is used to register to vote. Phone numbers and addresses for all the state election commissions and state election laws are provided in yet another link.

Command VAOs can find voting supply stock numbers and ordering information as well as links to applicable instructions.

'Toolkit' now open for family use

From MilitaryReport.com

C ervice members being called Up for active service or those deploying have a new tool kit to help their families, a DoD reserve affairs official said.

According to the American Forces Press Service, the Guard and Reserve Family Readiness Programs Toolkit is available as a printed product as well as online at www.defenselink.mil/ra/ family/toolkit/.

This standardized pre-deployment and mobilization handbook aids commanders, members, family members and family program directors or managers in preparing units for the separations that take place during mobilization and deployment. President Bush's Sept. 14 order calling up to 50,000 reservists to active duty means the tools could be a vast help to deploying service members responding to the terrorist threats.

Though aimed at reserve component members, active duty service members should also find the information helpful.

A related Web site is the Guard and Reserve Family Readiness Schedule of Events at www. defenselink.mil/ra/calendar/. This calendar is designed to provide places for family readiness training across the services. Those interested can search the calendar for training opportunities near them. (

The department also urged schools to offer flexible re-enrollment options to these affected students and to other students who have been forced to withdraw from school as a result of the terrorist attacks. Students who withdraw because they are called to active duty or have been affected by the military mobilization, as well as others who withdraw as a direct result of the terrorist attacks, will not be required to return financial aid funds received for books and living expenses.
